Our Story

Long before cafés became places to rush through, there were chaaye khana. Spaces where travellers paused, neighbours lingered, and time moved gently between one cup and the next. In our part of the world, tea has never just been a drink. It is an invitation. A reason to sit a little longer. To listen, to laugh, to return.

Chaaye Khana was created in that spirit. A space designed for unhurried mornings, thoughtful afternoons and evenings that stretch without notice. Porcelain warmed by fresh pours. The quiet hum of conversation. Familiar faces becoming part of your routine.

*This is not somewhere you pass through.
It is somewhere you settle into.*

Come for the chaaye. Stay for the gup shup.

Steeped in Tradition

From caravanserais to contemporary tea houses, our roots are hospitality, comfort, and conversation. Born in Islamabad, shaped by Pakistan's tea culture, and shared with the world, one warm cup at a time. In London, we keep the heart of the tea house intact; welcoming spaces, thoughtful food, and tea at the centre.

Tea that takes you home.
